

M3V Data Management Announces Launch of Environmental Rule Auditor

June 2009

INDIANAPOLIS, IN. M3V Data Management, LLC introduces a new web-based software application named "Environmental Rule Auditor" this month. The new application is designed to be a quick and affordable way for environmental facility management personnel to determine the applicability of state environmental rules and regulations to their facility.

M3V Data Management has converted all of the state air, water, waste and compliance rules into a series of questions. For a fee of $250, clients may log in, review and answer the questions. At the end of the process, the application will tell them which of the many rules apply specifically to their facility. Each rule is linked to the State Agency website that provides detailed information about each individual rule. Then, because they know which rules apply to your facility, M3V Data Management can track those rules on a monthly basis and notify clients of proposed or actual changes to those rules that affect their facility for a fee of $0.50 (fifty cents) per rule, per month with a $25 monthly cap.

M3V Data Management Vice President Ross Olsby stated "our existing clients were telling us that in some cases, they were paying thousands of dollars for a rule applicability audit to be performed by an outside company. M3V is staffed by people who come from a background of working at state agencies and in various industries. We are very familiar with this process. We combined our expertise with our programming abilities and came up with a product that is easy to use and will save clients thousands of dollars a year. Consulting firms and attorneys would benefit from Environmental Rule Auditor too."

M3V Data Management is a provider of internet based software applications designed specifically to serve the needs of the Environmental, Health and Safety community. The company provides tools for robust MSDS Management, chemical inventory control, SARA Tier II reporting, safety and training management, one click access to critical first aid information, EH&S task and compliance tracking, and now environmental rule compliance. M3V Data Management is staffed by Ph.D.'s, CHMM's, and scientists who come from industrial and regulatory backgrounds. Clients range in size from one person operations tracking as few as 100 MSDS sheets to tier one OEM manufacturers and health care networks tracking information and providing employee right-to-know information across multiple facilities.

For more information about M3V Data Management please visit www.M3Vsoftware.com, e-mail info@M3Vsoftware.com or call 866-388-4815. Give us a call; the friendly staff at M3V can advise you on numerous issues regarding software for environmental management.